

ANNOTATION OF THE DISCIPLINE

- the program provides in-depth study of some immunological and allergic diseases that occur in dental practice and must be timely diagnosed by dentists: herpetic infections and candidiasis of the oral mucosa, which could be found on mucous membranes; treatment and prophylaxis of acute allergic conditions and allergic reactions in the dental office too.